Introduction

This Professional Islamic Finance Specialist course prepares participants to understand Islamic finance as a practical, ethical, and professionally regulated discipline. It explains how Shariah-compliant finance differs from conventional finance through asset-backed transactions, risk sharing, and the avoidance of interest. It introduces the major structures used in Islamic banking, capital markets, and Islamic insurance, with clear attention to their business purpose and compliance logic. Participants examine the standards that shape the industry, including accounting, auditing, governance, ethics, and Shariah requirements, as applied across Islamic financial institutions. The program builds a strong foundation for interpreting products, evaluating transactions, and supporting compliant decision-making in real market environments. It is for learners who want a professional Islamic finance course that combines technical understanding with practical industry relevance.
