Introduction:

Strategic Human Resource Management SHRM is an approach that aligns human resource practices with organizational goals, enhancing performance and fostering a competitive advantage. This Strategic HR Management and Total Rewards course will explore HR's essential role in shaping an organization's strategy through effective workforce planning, talent acquisition, development, and retention.

As a critical component of SHRM, Total Rewards encompasses all employee compensation and benefits, including salary, bonuses, health benefits, and non-monetary perks. By understanding and implementing total rewards strategies, organizations can motivate and engage employees, drive performance, and cultivate a culture of recognition and appreciation.

This Strategic HR Management and Total Rewards course equips HR professionals with the knowledge and skills to design and implement strategic HR initiatives that support business objectives and create a sustainable and high-performing workforce. Participants will learn how to integrate SHRM and total rewards into their organizations, ultimately improving employee satisfaction and success.

The Strategic HR Management and Total Rewards course explores the concept of total rewards in HR, which refers to the complete set of benefits and compensation offered to employees. Total rewards management is a strategic approach in human resource management that integrates various elements, such as salary, bonuses, benefits, and recognition, to attract, motivate, and retain talent.

Participants in this Strategic HR Management and Total Rewards course cover the total rewards HR strategy, define total rewards HR, and explain how it aligns with organizational goals. It delves into the role of a total rewards manager, who oversees the implementation of total rewards HR programs to ensure they effectively support employee satisfaction and business success.
