Workplace Mediation and Conflict Resolution Skills Course

In this comprehensive course, participants will explore the dynamic field of Workplace Mediation and Conflict Resolution. Recognized as an integral skill for personnel and human resource roles, this course delves into the principles and practices essential for navigating and resolving conflicts within the workplace. The curriculum is designed to equip attendees to effectively manage disputes, facilitate discussions, and foster a harmonious work environment.

Introduction

This skills-based course covers the new and exciting area of Workplace Mediation and conflict resolution. Workplace mediation is now seen as an essential skill for personnel and human resource professionals and is the fastest-growing area of professional development in modern HR practice.

In any workplace, we can be guaranteed to encounter conflict. Up to 30-40% of a typical manager's time can be spent dealing with conflict. Senior executives report spending up to 20% of their time in activities involving harassment and dismissal.

A survey conducted by Price Waterhouse and Cornells PERC Institute on Conflict Resolution of over 530 Fortune 1000 corporations stated that 90% of respondents view conflict management as a critical cost-control technique and 88% reported using mediation in the last three years.

Mediation is generally defined as the intervention in a negotiation or a conflict of an acceptable third party with limited decision-making power, who assists the involved parties in voluntarily reaching a mutually acceptable settlement of the issues in a dispute. In addition to addressing the substantive issues, mediation may also establish, strengthen, or terminate the relationships between parties in a manner that minimizes psychological harm. Essentially, mediation is a dialogue or negotiation involving a third party.
