

Workforce Planning & Talent Acquisition

Workforce Planning & Talent Acquisition

Introduction:

This Strategic Workforce Planning and Talent Acquisition course provides participants with the knowledge required to understand and implement the new Human Resource Planning HRP cycle, recognized as a function within HR departments. As the fastest growing and most dynamic area in HR, it demands a new skill set, dedicated tools, and sophisticated software. This advanced program will guide them through what is for effective workforce planning and the significant outcomes it can deliver.

Workforce planning is a systematic, fully integrated organizational process that avoids talent surpluses or shortages. It assumes that a company forecasts its talent and the actual supply of talent that is or will be available. When executed properly, workforce planning minimizes labor costs and ramps up productivity. Understanding strategic workforce planning and the role of a workforce planning analyst is important in this process.

Strategic workforce planning is essential in aligning an organization's workforce with its business goals and objectives. It encompasses forecasting future talent needs and helping to ensure that an organization has the right staff balance in terms of skills and experience to achieve its long-term goals. Effective workforce planning solutions involve using a mix of workforce planning tools and software to analyze data, predict trends, and model different scenarios that could affect the availability and demand for talent. Anticipating these changes can aid organizations in preparing tailored talent acquisition and management strategies.
