Negotiating & Drafting Contracts Training Seminar

Introduction

Contracts are the basic structure of all business relationships, whether for the construction of a major new facility or the supply of stationery; the terms and the management of the contract itself are critical to the success of all companies.

This negotiating and drafting contracts workshop is central to understanding contract negotiation training, drafting, and negotiation. Contracts touch every aspect of business life, and all staff whether directly involved in contract management or not must understand how they operate, particularly in an international context.

The negotiating and drafting contracts training covers the three stages of contracting: negotiating the deal, documenting that deal robustly but practically, and managing the performance of the contract itself. The intention is to develop general skills that can be applied to a wide range of contracts and to allow participants to be aware of practices in other areas and industries that may add value to their situations.

This negotiating and drafting contracts seminar fits into the contract negotiation training seminar framework, allowing participants to consider matters from the other party's perspective of a contract.
